The Pride of the World

Little girls around the world cut out her pictures, from newspapers, to magazines, to posters and pin them on their walls, drawing one day to be as graceful, as fearless, as audacious! She is their pride, and their dream of emulating her someday. That's their pride, their joy, their source of inspiration.

A blue, textured ceramic vase containing a bouquet of dried flowers and greenery. The vase is positioned on a light-colored surface, casting a soft shadow to its left. The background is a plain, light beige wall with a subtle pattern of a saree's border visible in the upper right corner.

Indian saree remains the traditional clothing of Indian women. Worn in varied styles, it is a long piece of flat cotton, silk or other fabric woven in different textures with different patterns. The saree has a lasting charm since it is not cut or tailored for a particular size. This graceful feminine attire can also be worn in several ways and its manner of wearing as well as its colour and texture are indicative of the status, age, occupation, region and religion of a woman.
